CALDWELL TO LEAVE APR. 5

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS SHORT OF FUNDS.

TO MAINTAIN OFFICE

Won't Hire Full-Time Paid Secretary. Directors Announce; Annual Meeting Planned.

Because of lack of funds, the Maryville Chamber of Commerce will not maintain a full-time, paid secretary after April 5, the end of the fiscal year, it has been decided by the directors.

At that time D. A. Caldwell, who has been secretary since June 1, 1925, will sever his connection with the organization and will leave Maryville.

Under present plans, the Chamber of Commerce will maintain its office, but no successor to Mr. Caldwell will be selected.

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce membership will be held on the night of Tuesday, April 5. The place and other details will be arranged at a meeting of the board of directors next Monday night.

One action to be taken at the annual meeting will be the election of three directors for terms of three years each. Those whose terms will expire are F. C. Miller, J. B. Cummins and Arch Frank.

Mr. Caldwell has not decided what he will do after leaving Maryville. Before coming here he had been engaged in chamber of commerce work in Illinois and in the West. He has given efficient service here, directors of the local organization announced, but there are no funds available for continuation of the work.

A recent report states that 8,000 rations a day have been distributed through the winter to the children; tents and temporary dwellings have been erected to house the homeless; and every possible measure has been taken to prevent suffering. Special precautions have been taken to safeguard the population from disease.

Drilling has been suspended for nearly a week.

The drillers had reached a depth of 480 feet when an accident occurred last week, breaking part of the machinery.

Geo. Walker Beaten After Alleged Insult

Milk Bottle Is Implement Used by C. P. Anderson in Fracas in Store Late Yesterday.

George Walker, a laborer, today was nursing a bruised and cut face as the result of a combat that occurred at 6:30 o'clock last night, when Walker, witnesses said, insulted C. P. Anderson with abusive language.

The fracas occurred in the Burton grocery store. A filled milk bottle was used by Anderson, with Walker on the receiving end. Twice Walker was hit on the face with the bottle. As Anderson started a third swing, the bottle slipped and crashed to the floor, breaking and spattering milk.

Walker was taken to the Gaugh and Evans drug store where a cut on the side of his head was treated. He returned to the grocery store and was ejected. Outside the store, he was engaged in another fight, this time with "Leck" Fite. Walker was knocked down.

As none of the principals filed a complaint, city authorities said no action would be taken.

Walker was said by witnesses to have been intoxicated.

Eugene Hall of Wilcox spent yesterday in Maryville.

DEAD IN CHINA YET UNKOWN

OFFICIAL NEWS LACKING ON AMERICANS SLAIN.

U. S. BACKS ITS NAVY

Coolidge Cabinet Commends Action of Commanders, Whose Prompt Action Quits Nanking.

Washington, March 25.—All American missions and homes at Nanking, so far as is known, have been looted, according to a message from Admiral H. H. Hough at Nanking to the Navy Department today.

Confirming earlier reports of Nationalist uniformed soldiers' brutality to Americans, including women, Hough added that the Ological seminary, Hillcrest school, residence of—Hucheson and H. J. Mills had been destroyed by fire and the American consulate had been "looted or wantonly destroyed."

The word "Ological" it was assumed, was a radio garbling of "theological."

Washington, March 25.—President Coolidge and his cabinet today considered the dangerous Chinese situation in an hour and one-half session.

They decided no action from Washington is needed; and they upheld Admiral Williams, the United States fleet commander in Asiatic waters and his daring conferee, Admiral H. H. Hough, at Nanking, whose steel nerve and cool determination have brought at least a temporary easing of the Nanking situation.

President Coolidge will keep a directing hand on the situation, but he and his associates feel that able men are in control of the United States military forces in China and that they will not likely jeopardize the American position by untimely deeds.

The session was about three times as long as customary.

All dispatches from Nanking and Shanghai were given the President and read for his advisors' information.

Secretary of State Kellogg, on leaving the meeting, said the cabinet had agreed to uphold Williams and Hough in their course in China and agreed no additional action was required from here.

Cabinet members were plainly relieved at the more fortunate turn of affairs at Nanking reported during the session, namely, postponment of the bombardment in view of the likelihood of Americans coming out safely.

Bombardment Postponed.

Washington, March 25.—Threatened bombardment of Nanking has been postponed because Americans and other foreigners are coming out of the city.

Admiral H. H. Hough, at Nanking, reported this today to Admiral C. S. Williams, U. S. Asiatic fleet commander, after earlier announcing plans for bombarding the city.

An insolent message from the Chinese—and the fear that more Americans would be killed—had prompted Hough to threaten a bombardment tonight.

Hough's message was dated 5:50 p. m., Nanking time, and was relayed at 9:32 p. m., Shanghai time, by Williams.

120 Americans May Escape.

Hough said it was possible that 120 Americans, huddled together in Nanking University for safety from the war frenzied Cantonese, would be evacuated tonight to the shelter of waiting American craft in the harbor.

The British consul-general, wounded in the Cantonese original onslaught on foreigners, has been taken aboard the British vessel Emerald, along with some marines hitherto listed as "missing."

The strong stand taken by the commander of the Anglo-American war craft in the harbor apparently had calmed the ferocity of the Chinese, for Hough reported the situation somewhat easier.

Anti-Foreign Feeling Grows.

Shanghai, March 25.—Fanned by outbreaks in Nanking, anti-foreign feeling flamed again today, and meager reports from cities in the interior and along the southern coast indicated hatred of the "foreign devils" was growing to dangerous proportions.

The United States consul-general broadcast a radio warning to all Americans in the danger area, advising them to evacuate at once.

Authentic reports of the situation in Nanking were lacking, but it was known many American and British citizens had been killed and wounded. Nationalists here charge 2,000 Chinese were killed in yesterday's bombardment by American and British warships, but that was believed exaggerated.

British authorities this evening denied the persistent rumor that 100 Americans and many British civilians had been massacred at Nanking. No definite information was available, however.

American Educator Slain.

Dr. J. E. Williams, Shawnee, Ohio, vice-president of Nanking University was the only slain American officially identified.

General Pei Ching Hsi, Cantonese commander at Shanghai, was refused admission to the foreign settlement when he appeared with a large armed guard to visit the British, Japanese and French consuls. Pei finally agreed to leave most of his guard outside. He was accompanied to the consular offices by two settlement policemen.

Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, commanding the United States marines here, conferred today with Major-

WILL TO LIVE MAY SAVE HIM

DENVER MAN HAS PARALYSIS OF THROAT.

LIKE CHICAGO CASE

If He Survives Glenn Hill Cannot Talk for Months; Writes To His Attendants.

Denver, Colo., March 25.—A fighting determination to live may be the deciding factor in the battle Glenn Hill, youthful life insurance salesman, is waging against paralysis of the throat in a hospital here, attending physicians said today.

Liquid food was forced down his throat today and Dr. W. L. Holcomb, famous specialist, said his patient appeared stronger, although not yet out of danger.

An operation to remove Hill's tonsils may be performed tomorrow, providing the stricken youth is strong enough, Dr. Holcomb said.

Unable to talk, Hill writes answers to questions asked him on a pad. When told by newspaper men that his case was strikingly similar to that of Albert Frick, Chicago youth, who died after a valiant effort by scores of men to keep him alive when artificial respiration failed, Hill scribbled, "Yes, but I'm going to live."

Toxic poisoning had so affected Hill's nerves, according to Dr. Holcomb that even should he recover he will be speechless for many months thereafter.

Big Plans Made for Carthage's Music Week

Carthage, Mo., March 25.—The week of May 2 has been set aside by the Carthage Festival Chorus as music Week and a program to be climaxed by the presentation of "The Messiah" has been arranged. Talent local and national will appear during the week of song and music.

In rendering "The Messiah" the Carthage Festival Chorus will be assisted by choruses from Pittsburg and Joplin, and by soloists of note.

A membership campaign, with 400 as the goal, is being conducted to finance the week.

Anyway One Tourist Owns a Conscience

Salina, Kan., March 25.—W. J. Newlove of the United Power and Light Corporation this week received a letter from Cincinnati, Ohio, containing ten cents in stamps. The letter explained that this was the amount of gas used, according to their estimate, by tourists who stopped at Salina's touring camp recently, and used the gas although the meter was out of order and did not record the charge. The user explained his conscience had been working overtime, hence the stamps.

Two cars of well fed Hampshire hogs, averaging 241 pounds, today were shipped to the St. Joseph market by James B. Robinson, Jr.

The hogs were thought to be of exceptional value by Mr. Robinson, who had given them especial care.

Cameron Describes Interview Which Resulted in Articles.—Advised Ford "To Take Them Back if Wrong."

Detroit, March 25.—Henry Ford directed William J. Cameron, editor of the Dearborn Independent, to retract the attacks on Aaron Sapiro in the Independent if they were wrong, but to stick by them if they were right, Cameron testified in the million dollar Ford-Sapiro libel suit today.

"I told Mr. Ford I had a demand for a retraction on some things printed in the Independent," Cameron said, referring to the Sapiro articles. "I tried to tell him what it was, and he waved his hand and said: 'Well, if we are wrong, take them back, and if we are right, stick to them'."

Cameron then said an investigation was made by Fred Black, business manager of the Independent, but "my department did not" make any inquiry.

Pennsylvania County Not to Resist Reed

Commissioners Agree to Surrender Ballot Boxes for Investigation by Committee in Washington.

Court orders for the transfer of the 200 odd ballot boxes to Washington for investigation by the Reed committee will only be issued when formally requested by Jerry South, deputy of the committee, or another representative of it, it was announced this afternoon by Judge W. R. Fronefield, when action on a resolution submitted by the county commissioners, agreeing to the tarnsfer of the boxes, was withheld.

Jefferson City, March 25.—The house today passed the Mitchell senate bill designed for the extermination of "medical quackery" and sent it to Governor Baker. It passed the senate three weeks ago. AVERAGE PROSPERITY.

Seeking light on the country's business situation, Theodore H. Price editor of Commerce and Finance, finds it very complicated. The facts are hard to get at, he says, and are contradictory when we get hold of them. But he seems satisfied that conditions on the whole are good.

"Trade is spotted," he observes, "but entirely satisfactory to all who accept the fact that even in the United States an occasional year must slip by without breaking records."

Last year was adjudged, at its close, the peak of American prosperity for all time. And that in spite of the fact that it seemed slow in getting under way, and most of us, as the year proceeded, had no idea that all records were being smashed.

It may be taken for granted that the present year will not break last year's remarkable record for industrial production, volume of trade and general well-being, and probably not equal it. But none of us need be astonished if it comes pretty close. And in any case, as Mr. Price intimates, we shall have no kick coming if it proves to be merely an "average year."

It is the average that indicates the American level of prosperity; and only a little study of conditions abroad gives one a thrilling sense of how immeasurably this living standard level surpasses that of other nations.

CLUBS INSTEAD OF BALLOTS.

An American political science professor admits that voting in elections is decreasing. He believes, however, that much of the influence the voter has surrendered by ignoring elections he will regain by connection with organizations or associations that take an interest in public affairs. Such groups bring pressure to bear on public officials, do a good deal of research work to dig up administrative, political and social facts, and keep up a fairly steady educational campaign among members.

The professor doesn't say whether he approves of this method of democracy. He merely gives it as his observation of the current trend.

Women's clubs and men's clubs, both local and national in their scope, certainly are showing an increasing interest in public affairs. They appoint special committees to investigate the working of laws, the qualifications of candidates for public office, the behavior of incumbents in public offices, and many other phases of community and national life. They make recommendations and pass resolutions and take various sorts of action which sometimes seem to have beneficial results. Their most obvious and outstanding failure, however, is in the effort to get their membership into the voting booths on any election day. So far they have worked for that in vain.

What Other Editors Say

A BIG SURPLUS MEANS BAD MANAGEMENT.

(Kansas City Times.)

The secretary of the treasury and his subordinates are expected to be conservative in estimating prospective revenues. It is better to underestimate the revenues and have a surplus than to overestimate them and risk a deficit.

However, the condition of the treasury at this time and safe estimates of the surplus at the end of the fiscal year plainly show that a substantial reduction in taxes could have been made, and should have been, in the last session of congress. Even if the estimate of a little less 400 million dollars had not been exceeded, a tax reduction could have been made. But it now seems certain that at the end of June the surplus will be 500 million or more, and that will be at least 300 million above what would be regarded as a safe margin against future contingencies.

It is true, as President Coolidge pointed out when he approved the postponement of tax reduction until the new congress should meet, that application of the surplus to the national debt would in the end mean tax reduction through the lowering of interest charges on that debt. But there is a sinking fund to reduce the debt, and even without acceleration from other sources, the debt is being decreased through this sinking fund at a rate perhaps unprecedented in the history of national debt liquidation.

So long as the people are burdened by heavy taxation, as they still are by federal, state and municipal taxes, it is more equitable to distribute a great war debt over a long period than to make the payment of it oppressive to taxpayers and retarding to business in a shorter period.

What the government has done is to take the huge sum of one-half billion dollars needlessly away from business uses, and accumulate it in the public treasury to pay on the national debt. The country looks to the treasury department and to congress to keep the tax burden down to the lowest limit that is safe. The piling up of an enormous surplus is bad management which penalizes business.

INTELLIGENTLY PLANNED HIGHWAY SYSTEMS.

The increasing trend toward motor vehicle transportation has intensified the necessity of intelligently planned highway systems. The plan of State highway improvement may materially alter the economic and social development of a people as a whole, or any section. Dr. J. G. McKay, of the Bureau of Public Roads, points out that the location and improvement or lack of improvement of a given route is of vital importance not only to the traffic of the immediate locality, but also to the traffic of larger areas. He says:

"The development of a system of highways should be considered in terms of the movement of people and goods. The planning of construction of a connected system of highways deals with the destiny of localities and states, their agriculture, their industries, the growth of suburban areas adjacent to centers of population, and the social activities of the people. This is a tremendous responsibility. There can be no question concerning the necessity of developing sound plans for highway improvement over a period of years in the several states, and of providing the necessary money to carry out economically the proposed plans of improvement.

Road construction is not now the problem that it was. The immense tractors and our heavy road machinery take the place of hundreds of men and horses formerly necessary, and minimize possibility of labor troubles; to say nothing of making it possible to complete a given job in much less time.

Our main through-highways must be paved with some material requiring little maintenance, and which can be repaired, when necessary, while the highway is in use—eliminating costly detours with their waste of time and inconvenience.—Ex."

Graham News

Mrs. Harry Wright and Miss Harriet Wright attended the funeral of Mrs. Jennie Hughes at Bedford, Ia., Wednesday.

The Mowry Drug Co. made a great improvement to the store by installing a fine new iceless soda fountain and refrigerating plant.

The receipts from the operetta "Windmills of Holland" were $88.15. This is not all clear, however, as there was considerable expense for costumes, scenery and hall rent. The pleasing manner in which twenty-nine students of the Graham high school presented this operetta, reflected great credit on the teachers who had it in charge. The high school orchestra is also doing good work. Three new members have been added recently, which now gives them an orchestra of nine pieces.

Why we sell the DUNLOP TIRE

FOR 39 YEARS Dunlop has been building the world's supreme tire. Dunlops wear longer because Dunlop knows how to build better at each vital point.

Take the hidden carcass beneath the tread. Dunlop owns its own cotton mills for no other purpose than to spin the best long-fibre cotton into the famous cable-twist cord that goes into this carcass.

The extra strength in these cords means an added factor of safety against constant load and pounding of roads—longer life and greater mileage.

The extra "stretch" enables the carcass to give under severe blows, and to come back into its original position without internal injury.

The Dunlop tread—the toughest rubber development known—wears slowly and smoothly, making sure that you get out of your Dunlops, all the extra mileage that added care and longer experience have built into them. We recommend that you put Dunlops on your car.

Nearly 400 Attend Annual States Meal

It Takes Five Tables To Hold "Show-Me's" At First Methodist Church.

(By a Missourian)

Last night at the states dinner at the First Methodist Church was one time when the "Show-Me's" had it on all the rest of them. We were about 150 strong. Illinois ranked second with far less than half that number, Iowa came third, Ohio four, and poor old Kansas ranked a measly fifth. Other states represented were Michigan, Indiana, Arkansas, Virginia, Wisconsin, Texas, Kentucky, New York and Pennsylvania.

It took five tables for us Missourians.

The tables were decorated in the states colors and symbols. Yells and state songs were given.

It was estimated that about 400 persons attended the dinner.

G. E. Brumbaugh had charge of the program. A greeting song to the states was given by Mrs. Emmett Scott, Mrs. G. E. Brumbaugh, Miss Virginia Bennett, Kenney Tebow and Charles Gaugh.

This and That

The town clock and the clock at the local Red Cross office must be "sisters under the skin", anyway they are both erratic and today the ailments of both might be termed stubborn. Neither will run. It was 5:15 o'clock by the town clock, and 9:20 o'clock at the Red Cross office at noon by Western Union.

Speaking of the eternal fitness of things, and so on—how's this?

There may be a gathering of Nodaway Countians in Bulgaria soon. That is, there will be a gathering of Nodaway County shirts. The local Red Cross workers have been collecting discarded shirts of Nodaway men to make rompers for Bulgarian refugee children. The rompers were sent today.

D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Chamber of Comerce, has solved the town clock question. This is the way. "Let it alone. It will be right twice a day if it's stopped, which is more than it's ever right when it's running."

Last Thursday afternoon during the preliminary hearing of Tom Ashbrook at Maryville, Fire Chief Minter of Burlington Junction was called as a witness. Just as the chief was taking the stand, after being duly sworn, the startling shriek of the fire siren was heard.

The court room was filled with spectators, a number of people from Burlington Junction being present, and for several moments it was thought that the siren had been sounded as a mark of respect to our chief. It was discovered later, however, that a fire had been reported and the department was making a regular run.

The incident had little if any effect on Chief Minter's testimony, and he answered all questions in a calm unhurried manner—Burlington Junction Post.

Henry Thorp, janitor of the courthouse and custodian of the clock, suggested this morning that all the clock needed was a rest. He said he was going to get Paul Kuchs to scrutinize the mechanism and make the necessary repairs, if any are needed.

Bert Null of the Price and Null Grocery was a visitor at the rear door of the Democrat-Forum office today. He thought he was in his own place of business. One can't help but wonder whether it was our nuts or our good eggs that made Mr. Null feel so much at home as to mistake our shop for his store.

Lightning Injures Woman at Albany

(Albany Capital).

Mrs. Wm. Jones, who makes her home with her mother, Mrs. Ellen Gillespie, in this city, was painfully injured last Saturday afternoon, when lightning struck a large tree just outside the house and then deflected to the house.

The house is located at 301 West Harrison street and the lightning struck the tree at the east of the house, glanced to the rock walk leading to the house and then deflected against the house. It broke all the windows on that side of the house and tore a hole through the wall. Mrs. Jones was inside the house and was knocked unconscious by the shock, and cut by the flying glass.

The accident occurred at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and Mrs. Jones was unconscious for thirty minutes. A doctor was called and she was treated and it is reported that she is getting along nicely.

What Nodaway County Churches Are Doing

A HUNDRED YEARS FROM NOW

Comment on the Uniform International Sunday School Lesson for March 27, 1927. Review Lesson.

Wm. Southern, Jr.

"It will be all the same a hundred years from now."

This rather careless remark is used many times. As far as our relations with the people now living, as a part of the world as we see it, this is a bit of philosophy which might carry us along any line of action. If this life we are living is all there is to life then it will be all the same to us a hundred years from now, no matter how we live or what we do.

The Christian does not believe any such thing. The Christian has a very well defined hope that it will not be all the same a hundred years from now. We know perfectly well that none of us will be living as we are now living, that the things of which we think so much now will amount to anything then, that our possessions will belong to somebody else and our names will have been forgotten, but we hope for several things in return.

We hope and believe that this life is but a beginning of a finer, freer and better life. We do not know what the future life will be, but we believe in a future life so strongly that we are not afraid to give up this one.

We believe that what we do in this life, the use we make of the talents given us here has a large influence in what our future life will be.

We believe there is a God and that this planet and the life we find on this planet did not come by chance, and that the power which brought it into existence did not forget about it and will see to it that we progress in an orderly fashion into the next stages of development.

Jesus, when he was here, said enough to justify us in our faith in an immortal soul and a future life and promised that He would take care of us. We believe that He meant just what He said.

Is the church making good? I'll say it is.

In the year eighteen hundred, a little more than a hundred years ago only a few more than one-fifth of the peoples of the world were Christian.

In the year nineteen hundred more than one-third of the peoples of the world were Christian. I have not the figures for the quarter of a century just past but I am sure that the proportion of the Christians to the balance of the peoples of the world has increased greatly.

I believe the church is making good. We become impatient, we want to see things done, we can not see from one year to another much progress in our individual church.

A good way to get an idea of progress is to go away from home. Or if you have been away from your home for some years make a visit. Changes which you would not realize had you remained on the home treadmill are very apparent to you now. You find your old friends have grown older and if you are fair with yourself you will admit that it is better now than it was two generations ago.

Just how to measure the work the church is doing and to set a report of that measure down on paper is hard. Look back on your childhood. You will remember the narrow, the puritanic, the unrelenting religion of that day, a religion which taught a fearful God, a god of vengeance and terror. Those were good men and women and I know they are now having their reward and I believe that they knew after death for the first time how mistaken they were in their ideas of God.

The church is making good and it is shown in the fact that the man, the thinking man ahead of his day, who was called a heretic two generations ago, may now look to the churches and find that he would be entirely orthodox today in most of our churches. The ground we occupy today will be abandoned and in another generation we will have gone forward toward a much better understanding of God than we have now.

In a recent article Dr. Burris A. Jenkins of Kansas City had this striking line: "I believe that the liberals of today are really the fundamentalists." His argument was that the liberal thinkers believe that a simple faith in Jesus, in His life and His teachings is fundamental and that we can not adopt and accept man made creeds and theologies without dimming the perfect faith in the Christ. I do not go as far as does Dr. Jenkins but it seems to me that in this he has made a statement well worth our thinking.

To me Christianity seems to be a faith which if lived up to will make us all better citizens. The Christian is a follower of Jesus, not a follower of creeds and dogmas.

The standard of Christian living is the highest standard known to man and if followed honestly will give us the happiest life possible.

From the Bible we get an understanding only when we read and study the Bible intelligently and not dogmatically.

Prayer is a great force in the Christian life. I need not and do not know how to attempt to illuminate this statement. Every Christian, I believe I may say every person, who has lived to maturity knows of experience this wonderful truth.

About all of us who live an active life are temptations, temptations of many kinds and of all degrees. The Christian is better able to meet these temptations because he is a Christian.

Christian homes make Christian communities. There are churches in Christian communities and we serve better and live better, more worshipful and more useful lives in and through the churches.

Living as a Christian, serving in and through the church we are a part and parcel of a Christian community. Christians make good citizens. As a part of a Christian community we are a part of a Christian world.

I would like to see this great world a hundred years from now and I believe that I will be able to see it and to rejoice in the Christian progress of the century which is just ahead of us.

A silver offering will be taken to defray expenses.

"We Should Live by the Light We Have."

SCRIPTURE: Read—Matthew 25: 14-30.

"If ye know these things, blessed are ye if ye do them" (Jn. 13:17). "But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deluding your own selves" (Jas. 1:22). "Blessed are they that hear the word of God, and keep it" (Lk. 11:28).

See—John 20:29; II Timothy 1:12.

MEDITATION: Consider the spiritual truths of which we are sure. Love is better than hate; unselfishness than selfishness; friendship than treachery; goodness than meanness; self-control than license, etc., etc. Our conscience insists on the love of the better. To live by the light we have is to obey that spiritual voice. How far-ranging this is! It calls for the actual application of known truths to personal life, to business, to politics, to social questions, to international relations—a large order! For it power is available through prayer.

"Inspire me with that 'love of love' which implies 'the scorn of scorn and the hate of hate'."

HYMN:

O Master, let me walk with thee
In lowly paths of service free,
Tell me thy secret, help me bear
The strain of toil, the fret of care.

Teach me thy patience; still with thee
In closer, dearer company,
In work that keeps faith sweet and strong,
In trust that triumphs over wrong.

In hope that sends a shining ray,
Far down the future's broadening way,—
In peace that only thou canst give,—
With thee, O Master, let me live.

—Washington Gladden, 1879.

PRAYER: Pray for—power to weigh things spiritually; personal safety; seamen; the wayward.

Collect—Heavenly Father, whose tender mercies compel our love, we thank Thee for the gift of Christ our Saviour. In Him our short-comings are filled up; our sicknesses of soul are healed; our rebellions of spirit are quelled. For salvation full and free we bless Thee. In the presence of Thy outpouring of love our selfishness stands revealed. Breathe into us of Thy spirit that we may be strong to forsake sin, to overcome temptation and to live in the light which Christ supplies. O our Father, grant us to know something of Thy passion of love. Help us to proclaim the gospel to all mankind. Record our pledge before Thee that we will exalt the things of the spirit. Amen.

CHURCH MUST HELP IN NEWS

THOSE WHO CRITICISE MAY BE TO BLAME THEMSELVES.

WOULD DISCARD MEAN

Editors Prefer the Clean and Uplifting Whenever It Is Available.—Cooperation Needed.

From an address, "Clean News and the Church's Responsibility in Producing It," given last night by Edgar T. Cutter, Chicago, superintendent of the central division of the Associated Press, before the Men's Club at Christ Church, Episcopal, at Ottawa, Ill.:

"We hear a great deal in criticism of newspapers and newspaper editors because of the crime news they print and for their other alleged sins of commission and omission. I wonder if the churchman and the businessman consider that perhaps they themselves may be responsible in a measure for this newspaper condition. This newspaper condition reflects your business, that for which decent business is responsible. I believe the church and business are partly to blame.

"You say you want clean news in the newspapers? All right, you must develop it. Newspaper editors do not make news—they record things that have happened.

"Newspaper editors are not prejudiced against things religious, and things spiritual. They are prejudiced against the 'goody goody.' They use what they get of the more desirable news, but the product is small and too often it is nothing out of the ordinary. You are the source and you must produce the picturesquely wonderful phases of religious life and spiritual conception that can come only from a Christ-backed effort.

"There is an increasing number of church leaders and newspaper men who are keenly conscious of a need for closer union of the church and the press.

"What surely is needed, is a better understanding between business, the church and the press, of their mutual opportunity, their mutual responsibility. None can accomplish its great objective without the spirited cooperation of the other.

"At no period has there been so great a need for cooperation and harmonious action in all undertakings and between all peoples as now. Notwithstanding criticism, an earnest effort is being made by the purveyors of news to do their share. The desire to educate and uplift, and to discard the means and the sordid is common among newsmen. The people seemingly want better things and doubtless as a further stand is taken for constructive news the people will cheerfully follow.

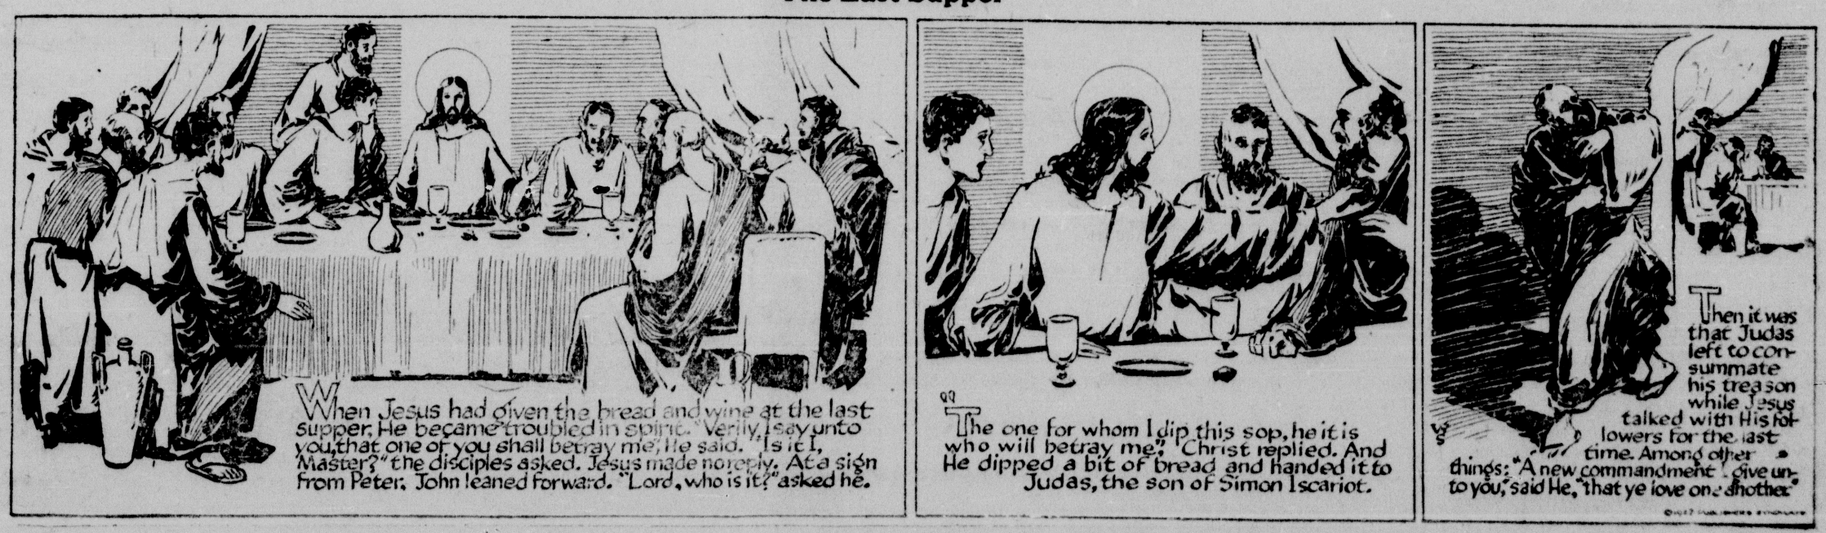
"A great spiritual authority has said that 'the character of news shall gradually rise higher and higher until finally Truth in its purity shall go forth.' The newspapers are therefore doing a great work in establishing avenues through which people are being educated."

Revival Will Be Started at Elmo

The Rev. Walter Bryant, evangelist of Macon, Mo., will begin a revival at the Methodist Church in Elmo the second Sunday in April. The public is cordially invited.

DRAMATIC EVENTS IN BIBLE HISTORY : : By Harlowe R. Hoyt and Walter Scott

The Last Supper



When Jesus had given the bread and wine at the last supper, He became troubled in spirit. "Verily, I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me," He said. "Is it I, Master?" the disciples asked. Jesus made no reply. At a sign from Peter, John leaned forward. "Lord, who is it?" asked he.
"The one for whom I dip this sop, he it is who will betray me." Christ replied. And He dipped a bit of bread and handed it to Judas, the son of Simon Iscariot.
Then it was that Judas left to consummate his treason while Jesus talked with His followers for the last time. Among other things: "A new commandment I give unto you," said He, "that ye love one another."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Death strikes GARRETT FOLSOM while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J. It is thought at first that he is a stroke victim, but investigation shows he has been stabbed to death under the water.

Folsom's swimming companions were ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON. Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a pichaq, an Oriental knife, and it had been bought on the boardwalk.

It is also learned that one CROYDON SEARS, who was in Barron's party, is a fancier of curious knives. Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is intrigued by the curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

He believes his uncle had been blackmailing several people and he and Riggs discover suspicious documents in Folsom's effects, bearing the initials of Croydon Sears.

Riggs and Pelton meet MADELINE, wife of Ned Barron, and Riggs is puzzled at her nervousness.

Carmelita Valdon admits that she is anxious to recover some letters that were in Folsom's possession. A remark from Riggs nettles her and she leaves.

Riggs questions Sears and is answered curtly. Others act suspiciously, including Ned Barron's wife, MADELINE.

Croydon Sears' initials are discovered in a notebook of Folsom's and Pelton thinks his uncle had been doing some blackmailing. ROBIN SEARS, Croydon's son, is worried now that suspicion is resting on his father. Riggs tells him he has learned that Croydon Sears had purchased a third dagger.

ANGELICA FAIR, Robins fiancee, questions ROSS, the dead man's former valet, who tells her he thinks Sears had visited at Folsom's home.

The elder Sears sends for the famous detective, FLEMING STONE. He tells this to Riggs, who seems surprised.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER 35

"Then," said Riggs, "you know the police are interested in your—"

"My activities in the auction room? Yes, I know it," replied Sears. "And I can't wonder at it. I prowl around buying antique weapons and first thing you know a chap is killed with one of them, or a similar one. Why wouldn't the average detective link up the two facts?"

"But lots of other people bought those old stickers. Meeker, for instance."

"But Meeker had no reason to kill Folsom."

"Had you?"

"Depends on what constitutes a reason. How do you differentiate between reason and motive? But that's splitting hairs. I'll tell you what, Riggs, if you'll leave your question to be answered until after my friend Stone gets here, I'll give you some sort of an answer then. How'd you like to sit in on our conferences and see what we can do, all working together, about the Folsom affair?"

"I'd like it first-rate, of course, reminding you that I'm working for Miss Folsom. At least, she says I am, but I've not done much yet, except to stir up things."

"Good to have things stirred up. Easier, maybe, for Fleming Stone to settle."

Robin, meantime, having handed in his telegram, went out on the deck in search of his fiancee, Angelica Fair.

She was there, with the Barrons, in their favorite corner, and he joined the group.

Near by, Miss Anastasia Folsom was talking with Mrs. Barnaby and Carmelita Valdon.

"You see, Duchess," the spinster was saying, for she had become rather fond of these two women, "things are not moving fast enough to suit me. I have faith in that nice Mr. Riggs, and I know he is doing all he can, but I don't like the way he's heading."

"What way is that?" asked Carmelita.

"I won't exactly mention names, but he has Garry's notebook, and just because it's full of a lot of mysterious names and initials, Mr. Riggs proposes to run down all those people and see if any of them are implicated."

"Just because they are in his notebook?" cried the Duchess. "Why, my goodness, they might be the merest business matters, or—"

"Of course they might," agreed Anastasia. "Dan wants to drop the whole question; says it can't help Garry to have somebody swing for him, but I don't look at it like that. A Folsom has been murdered, and if the man who killed him doesn't pay the penalty it won't be my fault. One-third of Garry's money is mine now, and I'll spend every cent of it before I'll stop chasing the wretch who killed him!"

"Don't they say," the Duchess asked, "one must always suspect those who are benefited?"

"Oh, yes. But that amounts to nothing. Of course, the minor beneficiaries might be thought of, but they're only servants and a few old friends. No, the motive for this crime was a deep one, and the method was planned and carefully carried out. It was no sudden impulse; it was premeditated, and so we must look for a motive of big import and a murderer of cunning. And I'm going to get him! I say he—but do you know I sometimes think it may have been a woman. The cleverness of that stab under the water somehow suggests a woman's ingenuity. What do you think?"

"No," Carmelita said, emphatically. "The idea may have been a woman's, but the criminal was a man. A woman, even if she had strength enough to drive that blow, couldn't have managed it in that tossing sea. It was awfully rough, you know. We were knocked about by the waves—"

"Pooh," said Miss Folsom, "the woman of today is as lithe and muscular as a man. And that's what it required, that and cleverness in taking the exact moment for the rush of the wave—"

"What it required," the Duchess declared, "was determination. Either a man or a woman could have struck that blow, had it been inspired by a hate or revenge strong enough. There wasn't such a lot of physical force needed. It was a question of aim and of choosing just the right moment. I shouldn't wonder if more than one attempt had to be made."

"Oh, do stop talking about it!" cried Carmelita, her face drawn with emotion and her long slender fingers twining tightly about themselves.

"I shan't stop talking about it," Miss Folsom announced. "If you don't like it, you needn't listen. Oh, there's Mrs. Barron—good morning, my dear."

Anastasia had taken a fancy to Madeline from the first, perhaps because they were so different in type. While the liking was not fully returned, Madeline was faintly amused by the spinster's odd ways and was fascinated for some inexplicable reason by her society.

"All right this morning?" she asked, breezily, and she came toward Madeline. "Going in?"

"No Madeline returned, "the sun is too hot."

"Seem to've lost your taste for bathing," Miss Folsom nodded sympathetically. "And Lord knows I don't wonder! Why, you stood next to Garry when he was killed, didn't you?"

Miss Anastasia was not one for euphemisms. If her friends died she never said they passed away. And of her brother's death she never said "when he fell" or "when he went under," as many others did.

Madeline shuddered.

"I wish you wouldn't talk about it," she said, almost petulantly. "No, I wasn't next to him."

"What ails all the women?" exclaimed Miss Folsom, grimly. "Can't bear to hear about anything unpleasant! I just guess if any one you loved had been stabbed you'd—"

"I wouldn't talk about it to strangers!" said Madeline, losing her temper at last, and, rising, she went into the hotel.

Ned Barron at once threw himself into the breach.

"Please pardon my wife's abruptness," he said to Miss Folsom, with his big, pleasant smile. "She is not feeling any too well."

"What's the matter with her?" demanded Anatasia, with a fine abruptness of her own.

"Nothing especially. But I think she is tired of the seashore and she is nervously sensitive about —about your brother's death. You must see, Miss Folsom, that though to you the subject is naturally of the deepest interest, it is nerve-wracking for a woman to have a strange man killed—almost at her very side—"

"Was he an utter stranger?"

Anastasia Folsom gave Barron a long, keen glance from under her heavy eyebrows.

"Surely!" he exclaimed. "You didn't think they were acquainted, did you? Why, we never saw or heard of Mr. Folsom until that morning."

"No," said the lady. "I'm glad you appreciate, Mr. Barron, my own deep interest and anxiety, and I do see how it is a very unpleasant memory for your wife to have in mind. Enough to spoil anybody's summer vacation."

With one of her sudden, abrupt gestures, she turned and walked away.

Angelica rose, and without a word, even to Robin, disappeared into the hotel.

Sraight to the Barrons' apartment she went, and, not entirely to her surprise, found Madeline, with her face down on the bed, sobbing.

(To Be Continued)

Fleming Stone appears on the scene, and things are now in capable hands. Read the next chapter.

She found Madeline with her face down on the bed, sobbing.

U. S Diplomats in Mexico Know Little About It, Consuls Claim

Editor's Note: This is the final article in a series revealing an amazing condition in the American State Department.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer.

Washington, March 25.—Mexico and China now present the two most vital situations in the purview of the State Department.

It may be said that the two most important bureaus in the State Department at this moment are the Division of Mexican Affairs and the Division of Far Eastern Affairs.

The theory presumably is that the men manning these divisions should know China and the Chinese and Mexico and the Mexicans, respectively. From that standpoint, the qualifications of the personnel of the Far Eastern division seem very high. The experience of the personnel in the Mexican division, on the other hand, is rather surprising as gleaned from the records.

Claim Superiority.

This series of articles is partly concerned with the bitter incipient revolt of members of the consular service against alleged discrimination in favor of wealthy and socially prominent members of the diplomatic branch, in violation of the spirit of the Rogers Act. The consular men claim that they have officers eminently better fitted for important posts than the diplomatic officers, who are getting a proportionate majority of them.

"When the department wants an expert on a foreign country, it has to come to the consular service," they say. "The diplomatic men specialize in tea-slinging and that's why they say we don't make good diplomats. We do the work."

Then, as proof, they point to the Mexican and Far Eastern divisions.

The head of the Mexican division is Franklin Mott Gunther, a $9,000 a year Class I man of means. Gunther has served in Paris, Lisbon, Rio de Janeiro, Christiana, London, The Hague and Rome. He has never been in Mexico. Last year he is said to have spent several months touring Europe while the Mexican crisis heated up.

Everywhere but Mexico.

The assistant chief of the division is Richard Cornelius Tanis, a remarkable character whose record credits him with 17 years as a clerk, letter carrier and stenographer. He was born in Holland and rose from a clerkship in the department to his present high post. But he has never been in Mexico and doesn't know the country.

Last on the list—at $3,500 a year—is Major Edward Prindle Lowrey, the only representative of the consular service in this division. Consular men say he does all the work for his high-salaried superiors. He was a vice consul in Havana in 1921 and in 1922 was sent to Mexico, where he became a consul in 1925. He is said to know Mexico from top to bottom and late in 1926 the powers that be in the department pulled him back here to help out.

A Real Expert.

Turning to the Far Eastern division, one finds Nelson T. Johnson to be its chief, at $8,000. Johnson learned the Chinese language more than 20 years ago and became a student interpreter in China, where he served in the consular service for 18 years. He was brought back as an expert assistant at the Washington Arms conference.

The assistant chief is John K. Caldwell, at $7,000 a year. Caldwell became a student interpreter in Japan 21 years ago and was a consular officer in Yokohama, Dalny, Vladivostok, Kobe, Tokyo and Chita. He knows his Japan as well as Johnson knows his China.

Willis Peck, another $7,000 man in the division, was instructor to the governor of Chihli province in 1906-08. He was born in China and served with the consular service in Peking, Tsintau, Hankow, Shanghai and Tientsin until 1924, when he was brought into the division.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, March 25.—War news from China caused a very nervous market on the Chicago Board of Trade today, with most traders inclined to be cautious until the situation is clarified. Wheat showed a fairly strong tone and scored a moderate advance over yesterday's close in spite of disappointing Liverpool cables.

The cash market was steady to unchanged. Receipts here were thirty cars.

Local shorts covered in corn, and this, with the strength in wheat, caused some improvement in prices. The cash demand was slow overnight and receipts continued quite ample for requirements, local arrivals being 99 cars. The market was ½ to 1 cent lower.

Oats were firmer with a light trade and an absence of pressure, closing 7-8 to 1 1-8 cent higher. Receipts were 44 cars.

Announcement Made by Briggs of Springfield.—Track and Field Here Not In Shape.

British Tommies See Action in Shanghai

Your "Tommy this and Tommy that" has come into his own again at Shanghai. The British troops shown above, led by two colonials bearing the insigna of British power, are the Gloucesters and the Durhams, who were the first foreign troops to see real action in the rioting which followed capture of Shanghai by the Cantonese. They are pictures as they marched along Nanking road in Shanghai a short time before the Cantonese attack.

Third Annual Texas Relays Held Today

At Least 1,000 Athletes Enter Events; Indian Marathon Is Feature.

Austin, Tex., March 25.—Featured by an Indian Marathon race from San Antonio to Austin, a distance of 80 miles, the third annual Texas relays were held today with athletes from all over the United States participating.

In the marathon, Indians from Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kan., were to test their strength against their brothers from the mountains of Mexico whose habitual gait is a dog trot and who scarcely know what the inside of a house looks like.

At least 1,000 athletes have entered the relay events. Among them is a sprint team from Notre Dame and Illinois full relay teams with six special event men.

Southwestern conference, Missouri Valley and Big Ten athletes predominated in numbers while a number of smaller colleges and normal training schools sent special event men.

YOU HAVE MISSED

A real thrill if you have not driven the

NEW DODGE CAR.

WASTED

$2,333,000.00 IN NODAWAY COUNTY

Where It Went

There are 7,000 cars and trucks in use in Nodaway County, of which about two-thirds are Fords. This leaves 2,333 of other makes costing on the average $1,500 each, or $1,000 more than a Ford would have cost. Had all of these cars been Fords, there would have been a total saving in first cost alone of $2,333,000. Think of it, then add to it easily another $2,333,000 for additional expense of upkeep, operation, etc.

$2,333,000 on first cost alone gone out of Maryville to satisfy—what?

Two-Thirds the Deposits

$2,333,000 is approximately equal to two-thirds the deposits in all of the Maryville banks.

Mr. Banker

Think of it!
Here was $2,333,000 for the first cost alone for these cars (not to mention a still greater sum for upkeep, operation, etc.,) which could have been added to Maryville Savings accounts.

Mr. Real Estater

Think of it!
Here was $2,333,000 for the first cost alone of these cars which could have gone into buying Maryville homes.

Mr. Merchant

Think of it!
$2,333,000 could have been saved if these 2,333 cars had been Fords (in lower purchase price alone), and this vast sum could have been used to buy Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Furniture, Hardware, Musical Instruments, Radios, etc.

Paying Just Debts

A few could have bought Fords instead of their ?.??? and used the difference to pay all their honest and just debts with cash left on hand.

*1 If any insurance is not bought the owner is saving the premium by carrying his own insurance—therefore costs him whether he carries it or pays an insurance company to do so.
*2 If washing and polishing is not done every 60 days owner is neglecting car, thereby increasing loss in depreciation, repairs and upkeep.
*3 and 4 If not done, increase depreciation, repairs and upkeep.
*5 If no storage bill but owns private garage, owner has investment, with insurance, taxes, depreciation and upkeep on his garage to offset storage bill. If car not kept in any garage, increase in depreciation, repairs and upkeep, will more than offset storage expenses.

These FORD figures are based on our records, with allowances to make them unusually conservative. For instance, we say 50% Depreciation on Ford, Climber and False Pride, yet everyone knows a Ford carries the least depreciation of any car. Figures on the Climber and False Pride are based on our experience, observation and information obtained from Car Owners, Dealers and Garages.
